Week 38

September 27, 2021

This Wednesday at 5:30 pm!
Pizza and create your own cake!

Dear RBC Family,

Matt Emmons had the gold medal in sight. He was one shot away from claiming victory in the 2004 Olympic 50-meter three-position rifle event. He didn't even need a bull's-eye to win. His final shot merely needed to be on target.

Normally, the shot he made would have received a score of 8.1, more than enough for a gold medal. But in what was described as "an extremely rare mistake in elite competition," Emmons fired at the wrong target. Standing in lane two, he fired at the target in lane three. His score for a good shot at the wrong target? 0. Instead of a medal, Emmons ended up in eighth place.

It doesn't matter how accurate you are if you are aiming at the wrong goal.

What are you aiming for in your life? What are you striving for? I think it's a tragic mistake that so many Christians believe that because their eternities are settled forever in Christ that they should not have goals and godly ambitions in their lives. There is an axiom that says: You will hit exactly what you are aiming at. And that is true in your life. Wherever you aim, that is what you are going to hit.

In 2 Corinthians 5:9–10, the Bible says, "Therefore, whether we are at home or away, we make it our aim to be pleasing to Him. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ..."

Are you aiming at the right target? Are you aiming at pleasing Jesus Christ? If not, how can you adjust your target?

With love as your Pastor,

Travis

This Sunday's Sermon

By Dr. Travis Southern

(Part 2) Based on Matthew 24:1-14

Jesus is coming again

Dear RBC family,

Thank you so much for the celebration from Sunday. You are very kind to do something like that. Renae and I, and our kids, count it a great blessing that God has allowed us to stay at RBC this long. We are also very thankful that YOU have allowed us to stay this long also! Thank you for the many cards, gift cards, and money. You are a wonderful church family. As I said Sunday evening, I have been very blessed to work with such wonderful people on staff; to work with such wonderful people as instrumentalists; and to work with such wonderful people as part of the RBC family. Sure, there have been some ornery ones along the way, but I know I have been one of those ornery ones at times and you have been very patient with me! I look forward to continuing to be “old Mr. Wells” at RBC!

Scott and family

Heartfelt sympathy is extended from Pastor Travis and the RBC church family to:

Kathy Smith, regarding the loss of her sister-in-law, Vicki.

Julie Ward, regarding the loss of her uncle, Les.

From Our Pastoral Care Counselor...

Responding to Unjust Treatment

Matthew 26:4-5 (CSB)

They conspired to arrest Jesus in a treacherous way and kill him. "Not during the festival," they said, "so there won't be rioting among the people."

We serve a savior that understands injustice. Jesus recognized that he was about to be crucified by the religious and civil authorities of his day. This was tyranny of the worst sorts.

The plot. The goal of the plot was to kill Jesus. Think about that for a moment. The religious leaders were so filled with hatred and contempt for Jesus that they wanted to have him killed. What was his crime? Teaching about God's kingdom. What was the real source of their hatred? Jesus spoke truth to power.

The setting. Those religious leaders sought to deal with the problem without raising the ire of the general public. They understood that Jesus had massive public appeal and did not want problems from those sympathetic. In some ways they were more bothered by what the public might think rather than this unholy plan they were developing to kill an innocent man. To accomplish their deed while raising the least resistance they determined eventually to arrest and try Jesus in the middle of the night with false witnesses.

The crisis. All good stories have a moment in which there is a crisis for the main character. Some might suggest the trial was that crisis for Jesus. Some might point to Judas' betrayal as the crisis. In this case I believe the crisis was when Jesus (Matthew 26:39) Going a little farther, he fell facedown and prayed, "My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me. Yet not as I will, but as you will." Jesus in his humanity wanted to be rescued from the injustice that was about to befall him. Later and through out the whole ordeal Jesus submitted himself to great indignities, sorrows, and tortures. And yet Isaiah 53:7 "He was oppressed and afflicted, yet he did not open his mouth. Like a lamb led to the slaughter and like a sheep silent before her shearers, he did not open his mouth." Jesus could submit to this unjust treatment because he had first submitted himself to His Heavenly Father.

The climax. In the Christ's story there is a double climax. The Cross represents the finished work of redemption of those that trust in Jesus Christ . Even Jesus said "It is finished (John 19:30)." The second major event is the resurrection. This demonstrated that Jesus holds the victory over death. While the plot to kill Jesus was intended to silence Jesus and his followers, His death and resurrection ensured that they would not be silenced.

So what can we take from this? First, we serve a savior that knows suffering under injustice. Second, when there is plotting there will be those that modify what they do based on what others might think. These moments will expose rank hypocrisy. Third, while the natural urge might be to fight against or escape these injustices, we must first submit ourselves to God's will and be resigned to submit ourselves to the consequences that will follow as God works through our circumstances. Finally, stand upon the Rock of Christ (Matthew 7:24). His death and resurrection give our faith a firm foundation. This secure stance will help us to face all trials that come our way as we put our hope in Jesus.

These are tough times. However, (1 John 4:4) "You are from God, little children, and you have conquered them, because the one who is in you is greater than the one who is in the world."

God Bless You,

~BJ
