LOOKING TO NEXT WEEK...

LESSON #2

THE TESTIMONY OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

NEXT WEEK'S SCRIPTURE

JOHN 1:19-34

THE LESSON AT A GLANCE

At some point, every person is faced with the question of their identity. While psychologist Abraham Maslow might call the end goal of this search self-actualization, the result for Christians should not be self-actualization, but Christ-realization.

When we put Christ at the center of who we are, He becomes our identity, and shapes our talents and vocation around His activity in our lives. When that happens, we have a story to tell—not about how great we are, but by how great Jesus is—that we won't be able to keep inside.

John the Baptist understood his life's purpose was to know Christ and make Him known. John stands as an example of a faithful servant of God.

THE MAIN IDEA

John the Baptist's identity, ministry, and testimony all pointed toward Jesus as the long-awaited Messiah.

QUESTIONS TO EXPLORE

How much of what I believe about myself, the work that I engage in, and the conversations that I have, point others to Christ?
