

Day 3: Knowledge That Leads to Godliness

Scripture

Titus 1:1–2 (NASB 1995)

"...the knowledge of the truth which is according to godliness, in the hope of eternal life..."

Reflection

Knowledge alone does not transform lives. It is possible to attend Bible studies, memorize verses, and accumulate information while remaining spiritually unchanged.

Paul desired something greater. He wanted believers to embrace truth that produced godliness. The goal of Christian growth is not simply knowing more about God. It is becoming more like Him.

God's truth should shape our attitudes, influence our decisions, transform our relationships, and guide our actions. As we learn His Word and submit ourselves to its authority, the Holy Spirit molds us into the image of Christ.

This process requires humility. Instead of asking, "What new information can I learn?" perhaps we should ask, "How should this truth change the way I live?"

Illustration

Looking into a mirror accomplishes little if we walk away unchanged. God's Word reveals who we are and invites us to become who He desires us to be.

Application

As you read Scripture today, identify one truth that calls for a practical response. Put that truth into action before the day ends.

Prayer

Father, thank You for the gift of Your Word. Guard me from becoming someone who merely gathers information without experiencing transformation. Help Your truth shape my character and lead me into a life of godliness. In Jesus' name, amen.
